ICE LIGHTNING

WINTER HOME SECURITY SYSTEM

WINTER TIME IS THE FEASTING HOUR OF CRIMINALS. THEY KNOW THE DROP IN TEMPERATURES MAKES THEM VIRTUALLY INVISIBLE TO THE AVERAGE HOME SECURITY SYSTEM. BUT YOU CAN HARNESS THE POWER OF ANCIENT DEITIES WITH "ICE LIGHTNING." IL TECHNICIANS TURN YOUR HOME INTO A CROOK'S CAGE BY REMOVING ALL ELECTRICAL GROUNDING AND INSTALLING A NETWORK OF LIVE WIRES WITHIN YOUR WALLS. ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS SET YOUR IL-SYSTEM TO "NOW!" AND ENJOY YOUR USUAL "BED-TIME" ON YOUR NEW ICE-LIGHTNING RUBBER COMFORTER AND SHEETS, THEN START SNORING. ANY INTRUDER THAT IS DETECTED (ALL OF THEM) WILL RECEIVE A 15,000 VOLT CHARGE UP THEIR ASS, INTO THEIR ASSHOLE, OUT OF THEIR ASS, AND INTO THEIR BRAIN, INSTANTLY PUSHING THE FLESH FROM THEIR BONES LIKE ROTTING FRUIT AND BLASTING THEIR ASS TO ASH UNLESS THEY'RE WEARING SHOES.

IL-SYS 79B

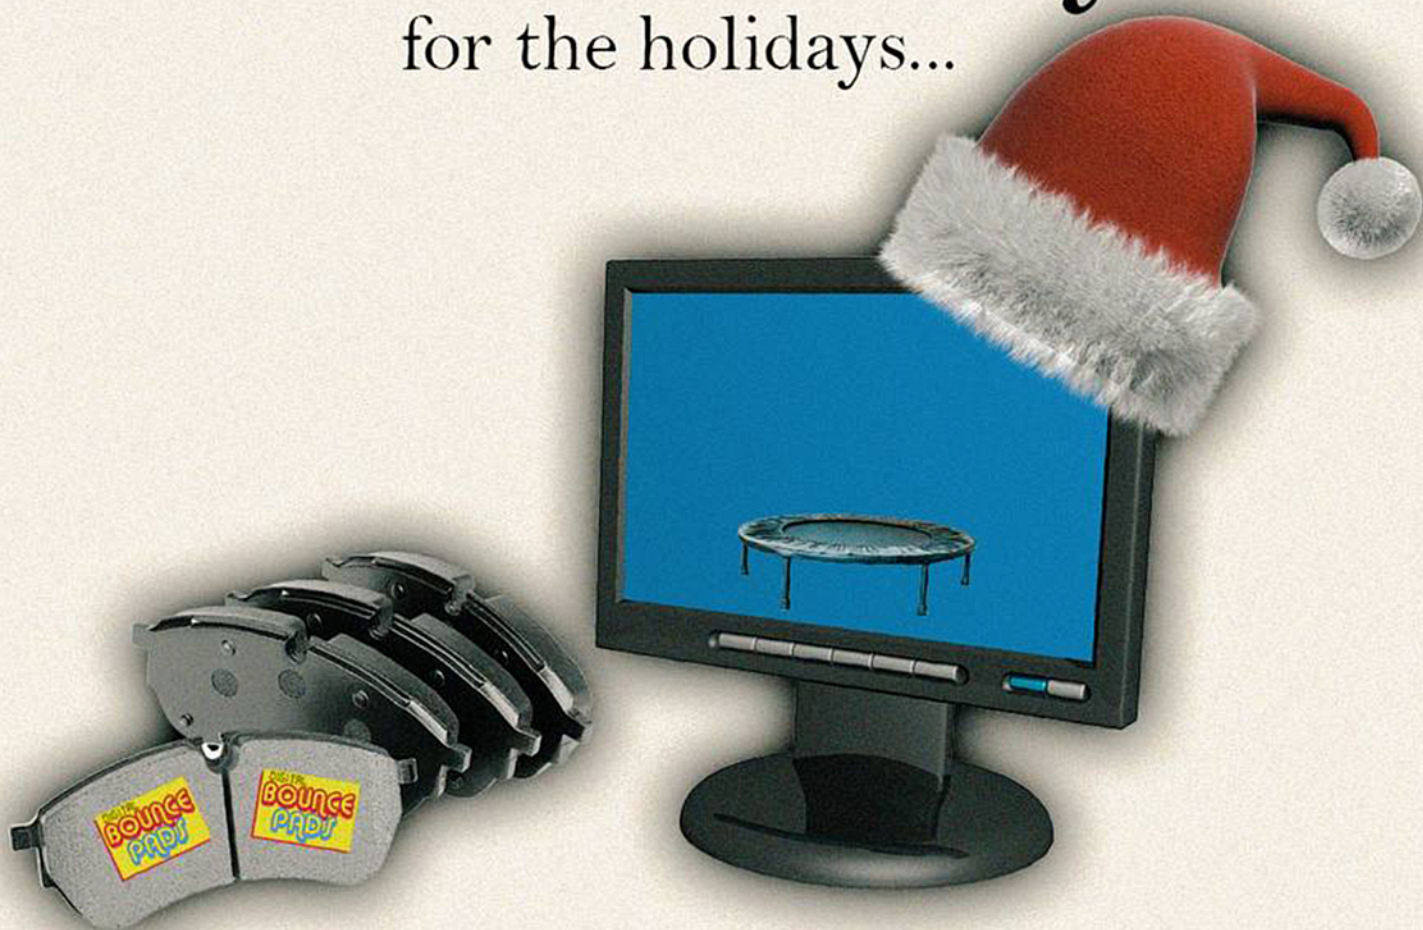

I WOKE UP TO AN ABSOLUTE BARBEQUE, THESE GUYS' RIBS WERE TURNED INSIDE OUT, THEIR CLOTHING HAD MELTED AND BLENDED INTO THEIR SKIN, AND THEIR FINGERNAILS HAD PUFFED OUT LIKE POPCORN.

The T.O.I.S. will be BIGGER and BADDER than ever this year and feature brand new S.L.O.E.M. and P.R.U.M.M. certification courses. Titans James, James, Chris, Billm and Takade have been selected this year to each present a separate course focusing on the unique challenges they face as a Titan in their respective industries. Do you have what it takes to become a Titan? Come and see at the third annual Titans of Industry Summit December 25th at 8:00am in the Bather's Ballroom at SORMS off exit 161 on i70 in Hays, KS.

Excellence has a flavor...

Oh you thought the TOIS would leave you "high and dry" this year? Not a chance. Christmas time is all about industry and the Titans know this more than anyone. Well, almost anyone. NO ONE knows how to chew a wet log quite like Uncle Samta. So... why not get a wet log straight from the horses mouth? YOU CAN! Yes, Samta will be at the TOIS this year, handing out wet logs and taking photographs. It wouldn't be a proper Titan's Of Industry without THE titan of the wet log industry now would it? Congrats. Ripped-Grinch Pump-Toys To Avoid Punishment

By Doug Bleichner

You know, I never thought I'd see the day when 24 Grinches were crowded in my living room, bench pressing, squatting and deadlifting tremendous amounts of weight. It was Friday, Christmas Eve 2015 and there they were, all the buff Grinches from the entire southeast, huddled into my small DOBO bungalow on Clangmire Ave in Perch Park. The Grinchmen were dipping and "dripping to get ripped." Lets take a step back.

It was December 1st 2015 and I had no gifts for Christmas. It wasn't a "no gift gift breakers" year that year either, and I knew if I didn't cough up enough gifts for my friends and family, the Council would burn my ass and "send me back to the stone ages" via their Gifter's Enforcement No Gift Left Behind policy. I was especially in hot water due to my lack of gifting over the previous 10 years. I had racked up around 20 gift debts, or gifts that must be made up for that were never given between 2005 and 2015. There were simply no options for me I had to get a gift for all my loved ones this year and they had to be BIG. But what to get?

For the past year all my brothers, their wives and their wife's fathers had been obsessed with powerlifting and increasing their max bench press, squat and deadlift. I have 8 Brothers, each one 5 years older than the last. Naturally I have 8 "Brother's Wives" and of course also naturally I have "8 Brother's Wife's Fathers." Thats 24 individuals and 24 opportunities to make up for the gift debt I had built with the council over the past 10 years.

I sat with this information for days. I understood the clear facts of the matter. There were 24 individuals obsessed with powerlifting in my family and I needed to give around that many gifts out this year to avoid punishment, or worse - death. I couldn't make sense of how these two facts were connected for what seemed like days. I sat for days.

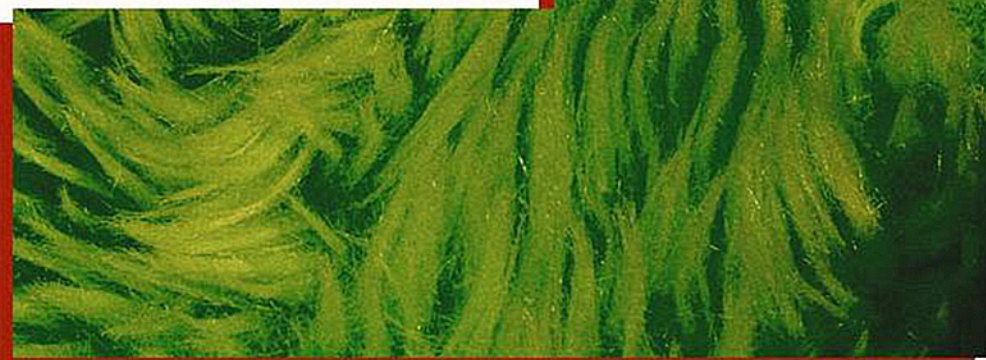

On December 20th I had an epiphany. A weightier's gift for each buff family member! Brother, Brother Wife, and Brother Wife Father each to receive a big weight, or two! I sprung to my keyboard and "keyed up" googell. I searched the net far and wide for Big Buff Toys, something that would dazzle and dazzle a fitnessed freak like my Bros, Broswives, and Broswivesdads. There it was!

The Ripped Grinch and Co.! Like a savior dashing to my aid as I fell into a large crevice opened up in the earth spewing hot lava and sucking me into it with hot air, The Ripped Grinch and Co. offered exactly what I needed: a customized Grinch Bench, Bar, G-Plates, and even an entire Grinch's "Rage Cage," a squatter's dream come true. The full set up would allow my family to excell in growing by using the Grinch's Body-Tech to pump them up.

I added 24 elite tier "Full Service" packages to my cart and checked out immediately. $136,700.00 - a small price to pay to avoid the Council this year! But wait... Oops, I missed something. A personalized Grinch was included with each package? They were set to come to my bung in only 4 days on Christmas eve, haul in their gear, set it up, and test it out for defects all night until Christmas morning when they'd hide and jump out, surprising my family. This was too good to be true.

That brings us to Christmas eve. It goes without saying that my family was blown away and that the Council didn't touch me in 2015. They couldn't. But what does it all mean? What do the ripped Grinches tell us about the story of Christmas cheer? I don't know!

From Simon

Q: THIS is what you wanted?
A: Yes.

The room was absolutely silent. No one dare spoke a word. A tiny boy, Torm stood high and mighty above about a dozen presents. They were wrapped tightly and with tremendous amounts of love. "THIS is what you wanted?!" shouted his sweating mother Vumbur. Torm smirked but said nothing, his gaze was fixed to his "little boxes," all wrapped "Tight-Ass-Hell." "NO! NO! NO!" Torm's father Hazz shouted while in a full squat. "Oh you GOT what you wanted huh? You GOT exactly what you wanted. Those little boxes wrapped so well and TIGHT with LOVE."

"You know what happens if you open that box right?" Vumbur leaned closer her son and spoke in a whisper. "You know what happens right?" Torm took a deep breathe before donning a wide toothy grin. "Of course mommy. I'll open my little boxes and find my holiday treats!" Vumbur and Hazz's face went pale. Hazz spoke up after wiping drool off his chin and plucking out a single hair on his neck. He gulped which let out a loud cartoonish gulping noise. The noise echoed across the opulent living room area and reverberated off the 60ft ceilings. There was a pause.

Torm spoke. "Well, time to tear in!" Torm tore into his boxes and found 4 emmaculate treats, each one more unique than the next, and TIGHTER. Torm giggled and shot up, then danced around the room while clapping. "You got what you wanted didn't you?!" Vumbur screamed, sobbing. "He certainly did! You did didn't you?!" Shouted Hazz. Torm ignored their shouts and continued dancing. "He got EXACTLY what he wanted HUH?!"

Vumbur shouted directly into Hazz's face and flung chunks of goop from the back of her throat straight into Hazz's nostril holes. "He CERTAINLY did! Ahhhh-hhhhhh!" Hazz passed out and probably died, though we don't know. Vumbur jumped out of the nearby window and landed 20 feet below and did not die but sprained her ankle badly.

Torm danced for 18 hours then took a small break and continues to dance to this day.

Happy.

On Wall Street, Sky Morphing into Low Resolution Graphics from 2007

Gabriel Charpentier, New York City – Amid a crisis in the NASDAQ's performance, a strange weather phenomenon has left investors and brokers bewildered during their morning commutes. For the past three days, the sky has changed color and taken on various pixelated images from a 2007 video game forum. The occurrences are leaving meteorologists scrambling for answers.

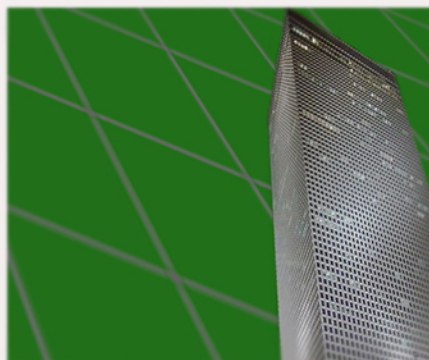

"I've never seen anything like it," says Michael Troutmaker, head of New York's branch of the National Weather Service. "At first, we thought someone built a massive projector to point at the sky, but police haven't been able to locate a source of the emission." Meteorologists have spent the past few days trying to conjure an explanation, but none are appearing; some experts even believe God is playing a video-game and connected the console to the wrong port. However, the larger challenge facing the NWS is calming the public.

Across Wall Street, powerful hedge fund managers and investment bankers have reportedly flung themselves out of windows, not being able to accept the potential this weather brings. "I can't imagine a time without 4k graphics and realistic raytracing in video games, let alone in real life," explains a high-ranking portfolio manager who asked to remain anonymous. "This could just be the start. After the sky, trees, cars, and even humans will become grainy and saturated to the point where living life will be miserable." While experts are uncertain if the phenomenon will extend beyond the sky, one thing is certain – something is trying to be conveyed to us.

The viral news has spread like wildfire across the globe, with radical groups confiscating Game Cubes and smashing Nintendo Wiis. For many, they are believed to be the source of the weather – a warning that technology has advanced too far. Many commenters online have pointed out the similarities between some images plastered in the sky and level designs in classic games such as Super Mario 64 and GoldenEye. Countless countries have closed their airspace in the belief that commercial airplanes polluted the sky with bright, fluorescent colors and shapes. As panic continues to spread and scientists continue to search for answers, the world waits in fear at the next pixelated JPEG to appear. ■

My Brothers and I Figured Out a New Way TO PUSH BUTTONS EXTREMELY FAST WHEN WE WERE CHILDREN

When I was approximately nine years of age my family had a Cathode Ray Tube Television in our basement. We lost the remote so we had to manually hit a button across the channel up and down, from one to change the channel up this process Kyle (love you big boy) found out he could tense up the muscles in his arm to make it violently shake back and forth, causing his erect plastic finger to rapidly click the low-travel button. He could click the staggering fifteen clicks per second, reaching through the channels. The rest of us, ripping excitedly implemented this technique and brothers convinced our family had a unique superpower. We went to school the next day and were preaching to our classes about this daunting revelation, but no one would listen to us...
