Something To Get Excited About

By Garm Garsenious Smith-Jansen

It was just after midnight and I had been working extra late on a piece about Skournsmen in northern Al-bekistan, an article for the Oceanic Geographer's Bi-annual human interest publication. I was tired and feeling sick from having eaten nearly 10 pounds of frozen grapes and was not in a great mood. I did not want to be bothered. Suddenly, I heard a crash downstairs, then some giggling. A "not-so-uncommon" sound in our home, especially on weekends. My 32 year old stage coach instructor, Instructor X, who lives in my home, and her friends could often be heard "goofing off" on the first floor of my 5 story fully renovated Upper West side Manhattan townhome which was constructed in 1910 and purchased by my business, TTT3 Productions recently for $65,000,000 making our monthly mortgage payment $402,473.00 after putting down a 20 percent $13,000,000 in cash on the property.

I rushed downstairs like I usually do when I hear Instructor X and her cast of about two dozen friends of varying backgrounds and ages screaming in the banquet hall basement corridor butler's cove hallway foyer entrance onto W 75th, where it is common that I direct uber and lyft drivers to before transacting a 250 dollar debit from my bank account to Uber Technologies San Francisco LLC. I call it my "Uber door."

I found Instructor X and her friend Dr. Milo giggling uncontrollably on the floor there. I stood and waited for them to settle down before kneeling and bowing my head, then asking softly, "Honey-what's going on? What's so funny?" Dr. Milo, a 69 year old NYU professor from Bel-Air, California smirked. I know Milos 112 year old godparents well and have fond memories of enjoying a tall glass of grape juice and frozen grapes at their home in Bel Air California which they recently purchased for $57,750,00.00 through thier Horse Accessories Software Advertising Consulting Agency HORSZESEY.

Dr. Milo pointed to his backpack after turning around quickly. I read the words written on his bag aloud. "This bag is used for doing the Skeleton Realm #BackPack_Challenge So yes, it is Durable, Robust, and can withstand tremendous amounts of pumping and hardcore bouncing. Please keep back 100ft" I paused and thought for a moment before Instructor X sprung up off the floor and lashed out at me. "He doesn't even know what Skeleton Realm is Dr. Milo! Lets GO!" Instructor X and Dr. Milo shot out of the Uber door and into an Uber before transacting $356.73 to Uber Technologies San Francisco LLC in order to reach the airport where they flew to Lisbon Portugal to see a creative brilliant artist's exhibit of mixed media artwork. I noticed that Milo had dropped his bag on their hurried way out. I picked it up and immediately noticed an incredible fragrance coming from the bag. It was wonderful.

I quickly took the bag upstairs and strapped it to my back, then it happened. I pumped my bag. I just want to say now: from here on out in my article, to those of you unfamiliar with Skeleton Realm and the lifestyle surrounding it, this might not make too much sense, but to me and my family who I have now understood to be fellow "realmers" it makes a ton of damn sense.

I pumped my bag hardcore and busted it back and forth for hours. The bag got so hot, it burned my skin, but in an epic and great way. I pumped until the sun came up.

I googled Skeleton Realm and watched every episode of Skeleton Realm LIVE! I read every edition of the Skeleton Realm magazine and read every freaking article on Skelepedia.org! I was hooked!

I rushed to the TikTok app where I created dozens of videos of myself pumping and bouncing using WatchMojosh's TikTok sound to make my hardcore videos pop that much more and to fully complete the backpack challenge in a legitamate way. It was EPIC! So yes I am a Realmer and yes I do the Backpack Challenge. Thanks.

We Are Sorry.

We are sorry. Yes, we know that there is no excuse for what we've done. We are ashamed of what we've done and we are sorry. We can never take back what we did and we are begging for your understanding and forgiveness. We have decided to live in a cavern. We will be living in a cavern outside of Johnson City, Tn. We will spend the rest of our days inside the cavern and no longer trouble the community. We have built bunk beds in the cavern and plan to live there, away from society for the rest of our natural lives, never to engage with the community again, except for once a week when we drive into town to buy groceries and other daily necessities such as toilet paper and bottled water. We are sorry.

SUPERIOR COURT OF FULTON COUNTY
STATE OF GEORGIA

STATE OF GEORGIA

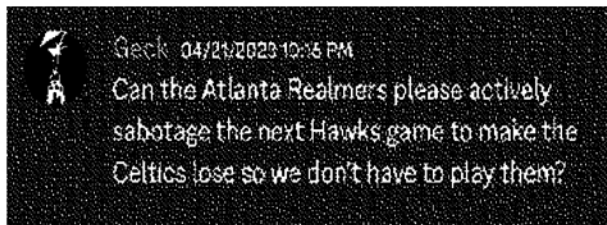

CASE NO. 2023-CR-0123

Plaintiffs,

-against-

SAMUEL WAGSTAFF and DOUGLAS BLEICHNER,

Defendants.

12a.

1. MS. LEE: Your Honor, the prosecution would like to call Geck to the
2. stand.
3. THE COURT: Geck, please take the stand.
4. GECK
5. Geck, after having been first duly sworn, did testify as follows:
6. MS. LEE: Geck, can you please tell the court what happened on April
7. 23rd, 2023?
8. GECK: Yes. I paid the defendants to try and influence the
9. outcome of an NBA game.
10. MS. LEE: How did you pay the defendants?
11. GECK: I used Patreon to transfer the money to them.
12. MS. LEE: And what did you ask the defendants to do?
13. GECK: I asked them to use their influence as hosts of Skeleton
14. Realm LIVE! to sway the outcome of the game.
15. MS. LEE: And did the defendants agree to your request?
16. GECK: Yes, they did.

MS. LEE: Mr. Wagstaff, can you confirm that you received payment from Geck through Patreon?
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF: I plead the fifth.
MS. LEE: Mr. Wagstaff, you must answer the question.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF: I plead the fifth.
MS. LEE: Mr. Wagstaff, did you and Mr. Bleichner receive payment from Geck to influence an NBA game?
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF: I plead the fifth.
MS. LEE: Mr. Wagstaff, please answer the question.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF: I plead the fifth.
MS. LEE: Your Honor, the defendant is clearly refusing to answer any questions. I move that the court find him in contempt.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF: Your Honor, I would like to represent myself and the Mister Douglas Bleichner, who is now my client.
THE COURT: Mr. Wagstaff, are you sure you want to do that?

MR. WRIGHT:
i. Can you explain what you mean by that?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
i. I mean, I never intended to influence the game. I was just trying to make Geck happy.
MR. WRIGHT:
i. And did you know that accepting a bribe to influence a game was illegal?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
i. I didn't really think about it at the time. I was just trying to please a member of our community.
MR. WRIGHT:
i. Did you have any intention of actually influencing the game?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
i. No! I swear, I never intended to do anything wrong. Please! Please! Please!
MR. WRIGHT:
i. Mr. Bleichner, in a text message that was presented as evidence, you said that you had "connections" and that you could "make things happen." Can you explain what you meant by that?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
i. No! No! Let me go now! Let me go now! Let me go now!

-DIRECT EXAMINATION-

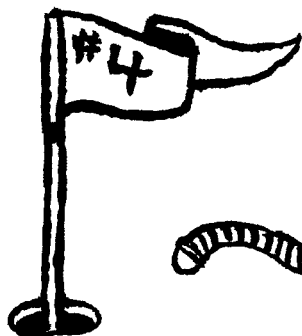

SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
As co-hosts, we've spent countless hours discussing sports and sports betting, correct?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
Yes, we have.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
And would you say that we've both placed bets on various sporting events in the past?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
Yes, we have.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
And have those bets always been successful?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
Yes.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
We won every single bet we've ever placed?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
No.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
OK. And as a result, would you say that we both owe quite a bit of money to various bookies and lenders?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
I don't think this is relevant to the case.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
Just answer the question.
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
Fine. Yes, we both owe a lot of money.
SAMUEL WAGSTAFF:
And just how much money would that be, Doug?
DOUGLAS BLEICHNER:
$750,000 each.
THE COURT:
Mr. Wagstaff, you are not to whisper with your client while he is on the stand.
